

ABOUT THE CENSUS.

Some Interesting Facts About Marriage and the Objects of the Census.

Washington, May 30.—The objects of the federal census are of three kinds: To furnish a basis for the apportionment of Representatives in the lower house of Congress; to ascertain the growth of the United States in numbers, wealth and industry; and to investigate the social organizations and institutions which determine the growth of population and wealth. The first is a constitutional necessity, the second a study of facts, and the third a study of causes.

Probably no social institution is so intimately connected with the growth of population as that of marriage. In investigating marital conditions the law requires about each person a statement whether he or she is single, married, widowed, or divorced; if married, how many years the marriage has lasted; if a mother, how many children she has had, and how many of these children are now living.

From the answers to the questions it is possible to determine the birth rate, the prevalence of marriage, the proportion of women and children to the whole population, the duration and fruitfulness of marriage. So far as the power and importance of nations are dependent upon the size of the population, to that extent is the accurate determination of these questions a matter of public necessity.

In the United States there would seem to be little danger of a decline in the population. But even when we are sure that the population is growing, it is still necessary to know how it is growing. The millions of India are increasing, but it is by a process of many births and many deaths. In good years millions are born; in times of famine millions die, the population increasing because a few more are born than die. It is growth, but savage growth. There is a more excellent kind of progress, that resulting from combination of a moderate birth rate and a small death rate.

The marital statistics collected by the census are in many respects very interesting. Thus, the extent and power of the anti-marital forces can be estimated in a way by ascertaining the proportion of people between 55 and 64 years of age who have never been married. Census statistics show that the proportion of unmarried females between these ages is greatest in the East, in North Carolina, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, for instance, while the proportion is smallest in the West, South Dakota, Utah and Oklahoma bringing up the rear in the order named. Men, on the contrary, are far more likely to remain single in the West than in the East. The proportion of unmarried men between 55 and 64 is lowest in the Southern States, e. g., Arkansas, Alabama and Georgia, and greatest in the block of Western States west of the Mississippi. In Nevada 88.2 per cent of the males between 55 and 64 have never been married, Idaho coming next with 82.4 per cent; Montana next with 29.5 per cent, etc.

That marriage is still preeminently the sphere of women seems to be indicated by the fact that more women marry than men, and they marry at earlier ages. Thus, only 81 per cent of females 15 years of age and over are unmarried, while among males of the same ages the proportion is 41 per cent. Taking girls and boys between 15 and 20 years of age, it is found that one out of every ten girls is married, while among the boys the proportion falls to one in two hundred. These were the proportions in 1890. Whether these conditions have changed since then is a question that can only be answered by the census of 1900.

The Confederate Re-Union.

R. W. Knott, editor of the Evening Post, pays the following beautiful tribute to the Veterans of '61-'65:

Louisville welcomes this week a rapidly vanishing army in gray. It comes from all directions and covers all the territory over which the Stars and Stripes float today. The army that gathered as if by magic from the South, beat itself into fragments upon the battlefields of the Union, and then like some receding wave scattered its mist about the barrier it assailed, wreathed that barrier in a rainbow of hope and beauty, and flowed back again to be a part of the great ocean of American hope and American energy and American patriotism.

Louisville will welcome these old soldiers coming from the shadow of Fort Sumter, from the shadow of Western Texas—which in time of war had not known the plow—from the North and East, as well where the men of Donelson and of Chickamauga, of Gettysburg and Appomattox, have, by their civil virtues, their commercial power and their professional dignity, won new plaudits from their old foes.

What memories haunt these rapidly dwindling battalions! How far and dim seem the bugle notes! The muffled sound of bird notes, half happiness, and half despair.

The shadows come swiftly as a hastening scout from the bivouac dies, and the phantom army of the past responds to the silent orders from the poet's brain and the history of an era unfolds itself in the memories of an hour. The living men march before us and beside them:

"The martyred heroes of Malvern hill,
Of Gettysburg and Chancellorsville."
It is something more than a re-union of the surviving soldiers of the Confederacy; it is the resurrection of hope and fear, of the passion of renunciation, of that devotion which gives all and counts it all nothing, and sacrifices to an ideal which, though unattainable, lifts the faltering soul to new heights of truth, of beauty and of peace.

It is therefore a Festival of the Ideal. It is the return of a whole people from the pursuit of things seen to the worship of the things eternal. Then the voice is heard, toned to the mellow music of the South, saying:

"God's ways are marvelous; here we stand today,
Discovered and shorn in wildest dismay,
The mock of earth; yet never shone the sun
On sterner deeds or nobler victories won."

Only to us are left
Our buried heroes and their matchless deeds.
These cannot pass; they hold the vital seeds.
Which in some far untracked, unvisioned hour,
May burst to vivid bud and glorious flower.

Meanwhile upon the nation's broken heart
Her martyrs sleep. Oh, dearer far to her,
Than if each son, a wreathed conqueror,
Rode in triumphant state
The loftiest crest of fate;
Oh, dearer far, because outcast and low,
She yearns above them in her awful woe."

Thus the voice of the South that floats awhile upon the air, and then out of the stillness from the North comes the faint, then full triumphant note that completes the song of passion and despair:

"Peril around, all else appalling,
Cannon in front and leaden rain.
Him duty through the clatter calling,
To the van not called not in vain.
"Stainless soldier on the walls,
Knowing this—and knows no more—
Whoever fights, whoever falls,
Justice conquers evermore,
Justice after as before;
And he who battles on his side,
God, though he were ten times slain,
Crowns him victor glorified,
Victor over death and pain."

It is the union of these voices from the North and from the South that make complete harmony. They reveal each to the other. The flags floating over each army are the same colors in different proportions, and who can count the stars of the blue firmament.

It is therefore a veritable re-union. All Sons of Veterans have a common heritage in the brave deeds that brighten all our pages, and make clearer, because bathed in blood, the stars and the stripes of the flag of a common country. This is the true triumph, this is the path we sought not, by which the bonds that once were a weariness to the flesh, became only the links that make a nation strong and beneficent.

was in his possession, had the duelling pistol altered from a flint to a percussion lock. It still shoots very accurately and carries a two ounce ball. Its barrel—which is twelve inches long—looks more like a section of a shot gun than anything else, while the handle is marked twice with the "X" sign, which meant in the palmy days of duelling that the weapon had done fatal work.—Lexington Herald.

Don't Know Which Way to Blow.

The Democrats are not blowing many free horns just now, not that they are any the less wedded to that particular idol, but simply from the fact that they do not exactly know in which direction to blow, or what key to touch.

Heretofore the free trade cry has been protection will dissipate American exports. They hoped and prayed and looked for that condition to materialize, but to their disgust it has never shown up, even in a most perceptible degree.

On the contrary, during the free trade administration, when there was no tariff wall, as they are fond of styling protection, our average exports were only $149,029,460 each year more than we imported, but now during the protective tariff administration of President McKinley, we have

BURR'S DUELLING PISTOL.

Versailles Citizen Owns Weapon That Killed Hamilton.

Louis Marshall, of Versailles, Ky., possesses the pistol with which Aaron Burr killed Alexander Hamilton. The weapon has changed hands many times and has an interesting career. Its authenticity is unquestionable.

Judge Van Ness, who was Burr's second, marked the pistol and gave it to Col. James Bowie, together with his mate, the Hamilton pistol. Col. Bowie wore the pair as belt pistols, but lost the Hamilton pistol while swimming a bayou. He afterward presented the remaining weapon to Dr. Carr, the superintendent of the United States arsenal at Baltimore. Dr. Carr acted as second to Thomas F. Marshall, of Versailles, the Kentucky orator and statesman, in his duel with James Watson Webb, editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer, in which Webb was crippled for life. Dr. Carr then gave the Burr pistol to Mr. Marshall, who subsequently presented it to his brother, Edward C. Marshall. The latter carried it through the Mexican war. It was stolen from him by his body-servant, but was located in the City of Mexico. Capt. Marshall gave the pistol to his son, Louis Marshall. Thomas F. Marshall, while it exported an average of $484,768, 015 per annum more than we imported.

Summing up the whole matter in a nutshell, under the McKinley protective wall, built high around our home market, the markets of the world have taken every year $335,743,006 more of American products and manufactures than they did under free trade.—St. Louis Star.

World's Temperance Congress.

London, May 30.—The World's Temperance Congress meets here in June. More than twenty temperance societies, representing religious, scientific, and independent bodies in different countries of their work and its results during the century.

The Continental societies are chiefly composed of clergymen and medical men, and their work will be presented mostly from the moral and sociological sides. The strictly scientific societies are English and American, one studying alcohol and its effects, and the other the disease of inebriety and its causes.

The Bishop of London will preside at the meetings, and Robert Rae, a pioneer in the temperance cause, arranged the programme.

CAPT J. A. RIDER

Gives Splendidly Illustrated Lecture To-Morrow Night at Assembly Hall.

FAMOUS STORY OF BEN HUR.

Benefit of Library Fund and Charitable Purposes—Liberal Arrangement.

Reminiscences of His Manager, Watty Wallack, of Old Theatrical Fame.

The ever popular Watty Wallack who years ago played the most successful theatrical engagements at Earlington and Madisonville and who, with his popular and talented wife attracted large audiences for lengthy engagements at these and other towns and impressed on many a young mind the glamour of the stage, is back again in this section as the manager of Capt. J. A. Rider's famous and beautifully illustrated lecture "Ben Hur" which will be given at Assembly Hall Friday night, June 1, for the benefit of the library fund and charitable purposes.

Watty Wallack's first appearance here and at Madisonville was with a company of only three, two of whom were himself and wife. They played in the first hall ever used in Earlington, the one built by William Walton on Robinson street and which is now the old colored Baptist church. A gentleman, speaking of this old hall some days before Watty Wallack was coming, said: "The best troupe that ever came to Earlington played in that old hall years ago and numbered only three persons—Watty Wallack's troupe."

Later he returned with a troupe of sixteen and played "Pinafore" to crowded houses for several nights engagements. Will McGary, now the successful hardware drummer, and Len Simons both then quite young men, caught the stage fever and traveled with the Wallacks for a time.

Capt. Rider has been lecturing in the city of Louisville for the past eleven months, to various churches and societies, for the benefit of these organizations. During that time he has lectured in 50 churches of all denominations. They have not less than 150 letters of compliment and endorsement from so many pastors in Louisville and the State. The entertainment they offer is a rare treat and should not be missed. The famous story of "Ben Hur" is dramatically told and grandly illustrated by 100 life size views. Admission 25 cents. Children under 12 years 15 cents.

Wedding at the Asylum.

Married, May 27, at 8:30 p. m., by Rev. Jared B. Irvin, at the Asylum, Miss Lulu Nell, of Clarksville, Tenn., and Miss Lulu Nell. Miss Nell has been matron of the Western Kentucky Asylum for several years, and by her uniform kindness and noble qualities of mind and heart has drawn unto herself many devoted friends who rejoice with her in her new found happiness. Mr. Martin is a young man who stands very high in the estimation of all who are acquainted with him. He was one of Uncle Sam's brave defenders during our late war with Spain. The presents were both numerous and handsome. After a visit to the bride's mother in Frankfort the happy couple will be at home in Clarksville, Tenn., to all their friends.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

Mr. Martin is a son of Postmaster Martin, of Madisonville, and is well-known in this county.

The Census Taking.

Washington, May 30.—The principal work of taking the general census will begin in earnest June 1 and will be completed within a month. The census takers in this country are considered the most complete of any nation. The first census was taken in 1790, and was very unsatisfactory. The census is taken under a special provision of the constitution. There was a national outcry of disapproval in 1790, but in 1810, however, the census was satisfactory, and there has been little dissatisfaction since. You are required to give your name, age, nationality, wealth, occupation, and tell if you are married or single, or whether you have any chronic disease, whether your property is mortgaged, and to whom, and other apparently impertinent questions, the answers of which are, however, not to go beyond the "census doctor." Cotton and live stock and other statistics will be collected by experts. In such the enumerators will use dog teams, and the work will not be completed until October, notwithstanding it was commenced some time ago. The cost of the census in western and southwestern Alaska will be $30,000.

Pool Notes.

Died, on the 26th inst., Francis M. Norvell, at 65 years of age. The deceased was a member of the 7th Regiment of Kentucky in the war of the rebellion, and served four years at the front. He leaves a wife, one son and five daughters to mourn his death. The Masonic fraternity, of which he was a member, conducted the funeral services.

There will be a religious debate between Elder Hardy, of the Primitive Baptist Church, and Elder Holway, of the Christian Church, beginning July 28, and continuing for several days. Both debaters are said to be able young men. The debate will take place here.

The farmers are probably two-thirds through setting tobacco. Some complain of scarcity of plants.

L. C. Stephens, who has been in Louisville having his eye treated for cataract, returned last Friday, and thinks he has been greatly benefited.

Decorations day will be observed tomorrow in an impromptu way. A large crowd is expected.

The May meeting at the old Baptist church, which is generally foot-washing day, was largely attended. Elder Hardy preached a good sermon, but the foot-washing ceremony was not observed.

Bro. Higgins and wife, of Hampton, Ky., were here last week with friends to visit. Mrs. Higgins was a former resident of this place, and her friends are sorry to see her in such ill health.

The teachers' examination held at Litchfield recently, when there were sixty applicants for certificates, resulted in thirteen receiving first-class, twelve second-class, fifteen third-class and twenty failures. This is the worst showing of Grayson county teachers for many years. Many claim that the questions in arithmetic were unusually difficult and ascribe the many failures to that cause.

GEN. MERRITT will be retired on account of age this month. This will result in the promotion of Gen. Otis to the grade of Major General.

JO BLACKBURN says, "If an honest election can be held in our State next fall." Who would have thought Jo would so question the motives and machine of his friends, by whose aid he was given his present questionable title to a seat in the Senate?

SOME people are very ambitious. Jo Blackburn who by the skin of his teeth got back into the United States Senate with a very questionable title, now already wants the "reins of government" turned over in order that he and others might smell around for things they would like to find to satisfy their political necessities.

JO BLACKBURN says in referring to the Democratic party in Kentucky.

The Democratic party is the friend and party of the people. It believes that this is a people's government, and that "the government derives all its just power from the consent of the governed."

How does Jo reconcile this with the figures made at the election of November 7, 1890 and certified to by a Democratic election board—Taylor 193,714; Goebel 191,391?

The Woman's Congress at the Paris Exposition will be a tame affair compared with the meeting held at the Chicago World's Fair. The chief reason is that American women have not recognized the Congress. "Gay Paree" is not the place noble American womanhood would choose as ideal for a woman's congress and France and her gilded metropolis does not appeal to American women—nor very much to American men this year.

JO BLACKBURN, in his extremity, seeks to make political capital by characterizing as greedy, heartless tyrants, "not less cruel than the Spaniard," the leaders of our matchless army and navy who won glory for American arms in a battle for humanity. Most of these heroes who have shed their blood at the front are still there and too far away to hear the echo of Joe's vapors, else the Courier-Journal's report, "a common liar and blackguard" would be repeated with muscular emphasis. Jo is talking at a safe distance.

JO BLACKBURN suggests that he thinks there has been vast stealing and rascality in our foreign possessions by the Republicans, and further suggests that all this villainy that he imagines can not be discovered and proven under the present administration. And he further suggests that the great common people immediately and at once take steps to turn out McKinley and the great generals, who have won glorious victory and surpassing honor for American arms and the flag, and "turn over the reins of government to the Democrats" in order that they might have the pleasure of seeing what they could find. When the people get ready to do this we would suggest that Tom Campbell, of New York, and Justice Goebel, of Ohio, be placed at the head of the "smelling committee" with Jo Blackburn.

Made Five Thousand Dollars.

It is reported upon good authority that Houston Coyle, a prosperous saw mill man of this county, last week made a deal in standing timber in the Nebo country in which he cleared nearly $5,000 on the transfer of a tract which he had bought only a few days previous.

It is said that he bought a tract at $7,000 and sold it to Henderson parties for a little less than $12,000. Another interesting fact in this connection is that Mr. Coyle for many years voted nothing but the straight Democratic ticket, as did his son William Coyle. During the Cleveland's campaign he had on his yard a lot of lumber that he expected to be enhanced in value by free trade. His books show, however, that lumber so declined under Cleveland and free trade that he lost $1,000 on what he had hoped for better prices. The father voted against Bryan. When the last presidential campaign was on, Will Coyle said that if Bryan was elected and times grew worse or if McKinley was elected, and times grew better under sound money and protection, he would not vote the Democratic ticket again. And now the son's conversion is reported. It isn't easy for sensible business men who are not office seekers to shut their eyes against the convincing arguments of the logic of recent business and political events. The doors are still open. Come on.

THE LAW QUOTED.

That our readers may be in possession of the constitutional provisions relating to an election to fill a vacancy in the office of Governor, we publish the sections contained in the constitutions of 1790, 1840 and 1891, and ask them to compare the language employed.

Under the constitution of 1790 the lawyers of Kentucky divided as to whether a vacancy should be filled by a new election or by the succession of the Lieutenant Governor. The construction finally agreed upon was that the vacancy was filled by the succession of the Lieutenant Governor. If the convention of 1840 was satisfied with that policy it was absurd to alter the language of the old constitution. Under that constitution the construction agreed upon in the practical application of it when Governor Helm died was that the vacancy must be filled by a new election.

The language of section 84 of the new constitution and section 17 of article 3 of the constitution of 1840 is identical so far as this question is concerned; and the language of the proviso in section 86 of the new constitution and section 18 of article 3 of the constitution of 1840 is identical.

A comparison of these sections and the practical construction agreed upon by every department of the government and by the people of the State in the Helm-Stevenson case settle this question; and we will not believe it possible for the Chief Justice not to comply with the statute.

GOVERNOR OF 1790. ARTICLE 3. Section 18. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, his removal from office, death, refusal to qualify, resignation or absence from the State, the Lieutenant Governor shall exercise all the power and authority appertaining to the office of Governor, until another be duly elected and qualified, or the Governor absent or impeached shall return or be acquitted.

Sec. 19. Whenever the government shall be administered by the Lieutenant Governor, or he shall be unable to attend as Speaker of the Senate, the Senators shall elect one of their own members as Speaker for that occasion. And if, during the vacancy of the office of Governor, the Lieutenant Governor shall be impeached, removed from office, refuse to qualify, resign, die or be absent from the State, the Speaker of the Senate shall, in like manner, administer the government.

CONSTITUTION OF 1840. Article 3. Section 17. Should the Governor be impeached, removed from office, die, refuse to qualify, resign, or be absent from the State, the Lieutenant Governor shall exercise all the power and authority appertaining to the office of Governor, until another be duly elected and qualified, or the Governor absent or impeached shall return or be acquitted.

Sec. 18. Whenever the government shall be administered by the Lieutenant Governor, or he shall fail to attend as Speaker of the Senate, the Senators shall elect one of their own members as Speaker for that occasion. And if, during the vacancy of the office of Governor, the Lieutenant Governor shall be impeached, removed from office, refuse to qualify, resign, die or be absent from the State, the Speaker of the Senate shall, in like manner, administer the government; PROVIDED, That whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of Governor before the first two years of the term shall have expired, a new election for Governor shall take place to fill such vacancy.

CONSTITUTION OF 1891. Section 84. LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR—WHEN TO ACT AS GOVERNOR—TRIAL OF GOVERNOR. Should the Governor be impeached, removed from office, die, refuse to qualify, resign, or be absent from the State, or be, from any cause, unable to discharge the duties of his office, the Lieutenant Governor shall exercise all the power and authority appertaining to the office of Governor until another be duly elected and qualified, or the Governor shall return or be able to discharge the duties of his office. On the trial of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor shall not act as President of the Senate or take part in the proceedings, but the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals shall preside during the trial.

Sec. 85. PRESIDENT PRO TEM OF SENATE—VACANCY IN OFFICE OF GOVERNOR. A President pro tempore of the Senate shall be elected by each Senate as soon after its organization as possible, the Lieutenant Governor vacating his seat as President of the Senate until such election shall be made; and as often as there is a vacancy in the office of President pro tempore, another President pro tempore of the Senate shall be elected by the Senate, if in session. And if, during the vacancy of the office of Governor, the Lieutenant Governor shall be impeached and removed from office, refuse to qualify, resign, die or be absent from the State, the President pro tempore of the Senate shall, in like manner, administer the government; PROVIDED, Whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of Governor before the first two years of the term shall have expired, a new election for Governor shall take place to fill such vacancy.—Lexington Herald.

LOCAL NEWS.

Everybody is welcome at every session of the District Conference.

Revs. Burks and Brown have been holding a tent meeting at Manito for several days.

Clouds kept out people from having a good view of the eclipse last Monday morning.

C. H. Kelley, representing the P. F. Collier Publishing Company, was in Earlington Monday.

Next Sunday will be the annual foot-washing at Flat Creek. Large crowds always attend this meeting.

There was all day meeting and dinner on the ground at Graperville last Sunday and a large crowd was present.

The Drs. Ammerman will soon begin the publication of a new paper at Madisonville. It will be called the Kentucky Osteopath.

The M. E. Church, South, has been treated to a new coat of paper. The paper is beautiful and the work perfect. E. E. Stodghill had charge of the work.

The rains Sunday afternoon and Monday made the farmers happy. They are pushing their crops with a vim, and the prospects for a large crop are good.

The Earlington and Madisonville baseball teams played a match game Monday afternoon. The game was a close one, the home boys being defeated by only one score.

O. A. Eudaley, of Noho, went to Louisville Tuesday to attend the Reunion. He was accompanied by Misses Fannie Eudaley, Nannie Winstead and Mabel Graham.

Tonight Mayor Burr and E. M. Wheat will deliver the welcome address to the District Conference. Presiding Elder Hayes, or someone appointed by him will respond.

Misses Lizzie Dean, Werdia Stokes and Charlie Davis compose the flower committee during the District Conference. They will have charge of the decoration of the church.

When the special Reunion train passed through Earlington Tuesday, Mayor W. F. Burr was at the depot with his large flag fluttering in the breeze. Earlington has no citizen who is more thoroughly patriotic than the Mayor.

Special Train.

The Reunion train passed through Earlington at 9:30 o'clock last Tuesday. A large number of enthusiastic ex-Confederates were on board. A good band was giving forth sweet music and every one seemed to be enjoying life. The old veterans are fast dying away and those who are left behind are delighted at an opportunity of again mingling with old comrades. It will not be many years until all those who were the Blue and those who wore the Gray will have to answer to the roll call in the great beyond. The wounds of 1861-65 are all healed and the Blue and Blue and the Gray are now brothers. May they all meet in a glad re-union in the land that is fairer than day.

BY A LONE HIGHWAYMAN.

Sleeping Car Passengers on a Missouri Pacific Train Get a Rude Shock.

A ROBBER AND HIS PISTOL CAUSED IT.

It was a Young Man, and Masked—Among His Victims Were Traveling Auditor Spangue and J. W. Orr, the Company's Attorney—He Made Good His Escape.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—A Star special from Falls City, Neb., says:

The passengers on the sleeping car of train No. 1, of the Missouri Pacific, which left Kansas City Sunday night at 9:25, were held up and robbed between here and Stella by a lone highwayman. It is thought that he either boarded the train here or at the Burlington & Missouri crossing at Verdon, nine miles north. After the train left Verdon he entered the sleeper, and compelled the porter, at the point of a revolver, to precede and aid him. He had to work fast, as the train was making up time, and he only had from ten to fifteen minutes before the train should slack up a mile east of Stella. There he jumped off, keeping the passengers back at the point of his revolver, and escaped. There were not many passengers in the sleeper, and he did not get much. Among those he encountered were Traveling Auditor S. G. Spangue, whom he relieved of his watch and pocketbook, and Missouri Pacific Attorney J. W. Orr, who was compelled to give up his watch, pocket book and passes.

A. J. Frederick, a Kansas City travel agent and salesman, related the robber's demand to surrender his valuables, and the latter fired a shot at him. The bullet grazed Frederick's head, and was imbedded in the window frame, and escaped. There were not many passengers in the sleeper, and he did not get much. Among those he encountered were Traveling Auditor S. G. Spangue, whom he relieved of his watch and pocketbook, and Missouri Pacific Attorney J. W. Orr, who was compelled to give up his watch, pocket book and passes.

Commentary by Rev. D. M. Starnes.

Copyright, 1906, by D. M. Starnes.

15, 16, "Teaching, preaching, healing." This has been His unvaried way. "Abundant with the Holy Ghost and with power, He went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil, for God was with Him" (Acts x, 38). As the Father sent Him so He sends us, and it is intended that the life of Jesus should be manifest in our mortal bodies (John xvii, 18; xxi, 19; Cor. i, 11). But He was ever filled with the Holy Ghost and with power, and this is too costly for the majority of Christians, for it means a life of self, none of the world and a life wholly for Him.

30, "When He saw the multitudes He was moved with compassion on them." This means not simply sorry for them, but ready to bless them and to great cost to Himself, even at the cost of His own life, more than that, for He was ready to take their place as sinners and die in their stead, and this He did in due time. What are we ready for in the line of compassion for others, something more than to stand by and see them in trouble and in need. One of the two said to the third, "I am very sorry for you." The other of the two handed the poor man 25.

37, 38, "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest: that He will send forth laborers into the harvest." He had just said, "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." See what He said about harvest and reaping and sowing and fruit unto life eternal in John iv, 35-38. This is a little strange, for the field is ripe, the harvest is in, and why is it that we are to ask Him to send laborers into the harvest? He makes us joint heirs with Himself, laborers with God (Rom. viii, 17; I Cor. iii, 9), and we are expected to be in the field with Him. Father, Son and Spirit have made us one with themselves—that is, those who have received the Lord Jesus as their Saviour—and they are ever saying, "Whoso shall send and who will be sent, I will send him." (John vi, 27; I Cor. xii, 18; 1 Tim. ii, 10; 2 Tim. ii, 24; Tit. ii, 11; 1 Pet. ii, 9; 1 John ii, 27; 1 John iii, 10; 1 John iv, 19; 1 John v, 16; 1 John v, 19; 1 John v, 20; 1 John v, 21; 1 John v, 22; 1 John v, 23; 1 John v, 24; 1 John v, 25; 1 John v, 26; 1 John v, 27; 1 John v, 28; 1 John v, 29; 1 John v, 30; 1 John v, 31; 1 John v, 32; 1 John v, 33; 1 John v, 34; 1 John v, 35; 1 John v, 36; 1 John v, 37; 1 John v, 38; 1 John v, 39; 1 John v, 40; 1 John v, 41; 1 John v, 42; 1 John v, 43; 1 John v, 44; 1 John v, 45; 1 John v, 46; 1 John v, 47; 1 John v, 48; 1 John v, 49; 1 John v, 50; 1 John v, 51; 1 John v, 52; 1 John v, 53; 1 John v, 54; 1 John v, 55; 1 John v, 56; 1 John v, 57; 1 John v, 58; 1 John v, 59; 1 John v, 60; 1 John v, 61; 1 John v, 62; 1 John v, 63; 1 John v, 64; 1 John v, 65; 1 John v, 66; 1 John v, 67; 1 John v, 68; 1 John v, 69; 1 John v, 70; 1 John v, 71; 1 John v, 72; 1 John v, 73; 1 John v, 74; 1 John v, 75; 1 John v, 76; 1 John v, 77; 1 John v, 78; 1 John v, 79; 1 John v, 80; 1 John v, 81; 1 John v, 82; 1 John v, 83; 1 John v, 84; 1 John v, 85; 1 John v, 86; 1 John v, 87; 1 John v, 88; 1 John v, 89; 1 John v, 90; 1 John v, 91; 1 John v, 92; 1 John v, 93; 1 John v, 94; 1 John v, 95; 1 John v, 96; 1 John v, 97; 1 John v, 98; 1 John v, 99; 1 John v, 100.

39, 40, "And when He had said these things, He made twelve disciples of them, whom He named apostles." This is a little strange, for He had just said, "I am very sorry for you." The other of the two handed the poor man 25.

Scripture for the Week Ending June 3.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—How to be a good neighbor—Luke x.

THE PARABLE.

The parable of the good Samaritan was related forth by the question of a lawyer, not necessarily a malicious question, as to reveal this, Christ asked him the law. He replied, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." This was approved, and he was told to do it, and he would have his. Trying to make the personal application of the law, he asked, "And who is my neighbor?" The reply was this parable, in which the spirit of neighborliness was shown as to the definition of a neighbor.

The Samaritan was set forth, Christ taught the lawyer what it was to be neighborly more than to a neighbor. The Samaritan was a man, probably a Jew, full of himself on the dangerous road, and he was set forth, Christ taught the lawyer what it was to be neighborly more than to a neighbor. The Samaritan was a man, probably a Jew, full of
